

About the Bildungswerk Irsee:

The Bildungswerk Irsee is located in "Kloster Irsee" and was founded 1981 by the association of all seven bavarian districts as a centre for training and further education for the employees of all district institutions.

Each year about 150 courses and seminars with over 500 trainers are offered to more than 3000 participants.

Our offers range from daily events, courses lasting several days up to studies parallel to occupation.

Main emphasis is put on courses in the field of psychiatry, neurology and social service, but also seminars in management, personality development and public health are part of our programme.

Most of our offers are multi-professional which should encourage interdisciplinary cooperation.

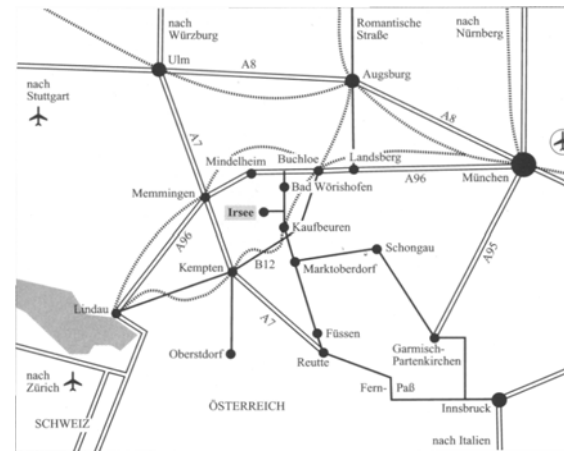

About Kloster Irsee:

Irsee monastery is located in the small village Irsee near Kaufbeuren in the South of Bavaria. The monastery was founded in 1182 by benedictinian monks. In the 18th century it was rebuilt in baroque style. After secularisation in the 19th century it was used as hospital and nursing home especially for chronic psychiatric patients for more than hundred years.

After renovation in the 1970ies Kloster Irsee was re-opened in 1981 and since then has been used as training and educational centre of the State Parliament of Swabia.

Training Seminar on Forensic Psychiatry in Europe

9th to 13th August 2010

Munich and Kloster Irsee

A cooperation between the Ghent Group

and
the Bildungswerk Irsee

The Idea:

Forensic Psychiatry has been developed to variable extends in the different European countries. It is more depending on historical traditions and national and regional legal norms, structure and practice than other medical disciplines. Each of those variabilities in the different European countries has its advantages and disadvantages, some of them can be recognized easily some are more hidden. It would be premature and maybe even disadvantageous to ignore the differences for the sake of a common European practice of Forensic Psychiatry. But there are also common grounds in practice, research, teaching and training in forensic psychiatry.

The Ghent Group:

In 2004 the Ghent Group, an informal group of forensic psychiatrists, who are interested and experienced in training in the field and called after their first ever meeting in Ghent, Belgium, has tried to focus on the common grounds and at the differences in training in different European countries from the trainers point of view. The group proposes to extend this view to the trainees side and to take the initiative for a seminar on Forensic Psychiatry in Europe. It does so in collaboration with the Bildungswerk Irsee, a centre for training and further education mainly in the field of psychiatry and especially forensic psychiatry.

The seminar should be a module which adds on existing training programmes in forensic psychiatry in different European countries and is hoped to be an incentive to countries where specialized training is not yet established. It is not a training programme to form "European Forensic Psychiatrists", but it should provide knowledge and skills for advanced trainees and gives them the chance to discuss their problems with renowned European specialists.

The purpose:

The purpose of the seminar is to make trainees of European countries aware of common aspects and differences in forensic psychiatry in the different countries and to learn from each other and from renowned trainers how to improve own skills and at the same time advance the services of forensic psychiatry in their own environment.

Trainees are following the pathway of offenders through the system of different European countries and thus learn about the principles that govern the methods and the practice of their work at the interface of law and psychiatry in different parts of Europe. They will in advance receive case vignettes by email and will be asked to study them before they come.
